PARLIAMENT WILL BE ADJOURNED AGAIN AT NOVEMBER MEETING

Prorogation to Be Taken in January and New Session to Open On Same Day—Defence Minister to Visit England—Two Appointments Announced by Mackenzie King

OTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Parliament will meet for its next regular business session early in January unless some emergency like an attempted invasion of Britain or serious developments in the Far East make an earlier sitting advisable, Prime Minister King announced at a press conference yesterday.

Both the Senate and Commons stand adjourned until November 5, but they will meet on that day only for the formality of adjourning again, a date yet to be fixed early in January.

Mr. King told a group of twenty Ottawa correspondents assembled in his east block office that "the situation as we see it now is really less anxious than when we adjourned." He said it appeared possible there would be no attempt to invade Great Britain "although it may come tomorrow." Parliament adjourned on August 7 subject to immediate call.

TO VISIT ENGLAND

Defence Minister J. L. Ralston and some of his officers will go to England "soon" to discuss the whole defence situation with Prime Minister Churchill and other British officials. Mr. King said Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner would precede the Defence Minister in a trip to England to ascertain the United Kingdom's food requirements, he added.

The Prime Minister announced the following appointments:

Hon. Joseph E. Perrault, of Arthabaska, Quebec, to be a member of the International Joint Commission, replacing Sir William Hearst, who has resigned.

MADÉ DEPUTY MINISTER

Dr. Bryce M. Stewart, of New York City, Canadian-born authority on unemployment insurance, to be deputy minister of labor, succeeding

IMPRESSED BY COAST DEFENCE

Minister for Air Thinks West Most Air-Minded Of Canada

REGINA, Oct. 3 (CP)—The development of Canada's air defences at the Pacific Coast was the first, which most impressed Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of National Defence for Air, during his inspection of Western Canadian air stations and training centres, he said tonight during a brief stop here on his way East.

"I think the West is more air-minded than anywhere else in Canada," Major Power declared.

General satisfaction with air force developments in Western Canada, both from a defence viewpoint and in connection with the British Commonwealth air training plan was expressed by Major Power.

While at the Pacific Coast he greeted the Australian Air Force students, just arrived in Canada to complete their training under the Empire plan. The Australians have since proceeded to Eastern Canada, but Major Power said that when further groups of students arrived in Canada at least some of them would be stationed at advanced schools in Western Canada.

"I want to thank the people of the West, and particularly of Regina, for the care they take of our airmen," he told reporters.

Mint Working Day and Night Making Coins

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Canada's mint is working twenty-four hours a day these days, turning out more than 3,000,000 coins a week in an effort to meet the greatest demand for coinage in the country's history.

Finance Department officials said today, ordinarily the mint produces only about 30,000,000 copper and silver pieces in the run of a year or between 500,000 and 600,000 a week.

Officials said they attributed the demand for silver and copper money partly to new taxes, such as a copper or two on magazines, and increased business operations due to the war

Two Charred Bodies Found in Ruins After Fire Destroys House

Suspicion Aroused by Tragedy in Lake Windermere District—One Victim Identified as Former Member of British Columbia Legislature

CRANBROOK, B.C., Oct. 3 (CP)—Provincial Police said tonight the charred bodies of two men had been found in the ruins of a house which burned down under "suspicious circumstances" in the Lake Windermere district north of here.

One of them had been identified as that of Harold J. Forester, one-time member of the British Columbia Legislature. The identity of the second body could not be made immediately, but police believed it may be that of John Lundy, eighty, who lived with Forester in the palatial

British Continue Smashing Raids On Nazi Centres

Channel Coast Curiously Quiet, But Night Operations in Progress Usual—Great Krupp Arms Works Bombed—Oil Plants, Freight Yards And Airdromes Under Aerial Attack

LONDON, Oct. 3 (CP)—The Air Ministry announced tonight that night operations "are in progress as usual" presumably inland on the Continent. The announcement was made when Ministry officials were asked to explain a curious quiet over the Channel coast.

Up to near midnight there had been no sign of the usual explosive raids by the Royal Air Force on the "invasion ports" of the Nazi-occupied French coast.

For the first time in forty-one days there had been no German raid on the Dover section of England.

MIST HANGS OVER SEA

A strong southwest wind swept the Dover Strait tonight and the change in direction from northeast brought rising temperatures. A mist hung over the sea, but it was fairly calm. Visibility was fair.

Last night the Royal Air Force, despite bad weather, attacked with in Germany, but passed up most

Channel ports opposite Dover.

Among targets attacked were the

Portland Man Named As New President of Pacific Lumbermen

Congress Directors Elect Officers at Annual Meeting During Big Convention Here—Aquacade Highlight of Entertainment Programme

TRUMAN W. Collins, Portland, Ore., was elected president of the Pacific Logging Congress at the annual meeting of the board of directors, held last night in the Empress Hotel. A. A. Lausmann and A. Whisnant, both of Portland, were elected vice-president and secretary, respectively.

The directors resolved to hold the purchase of cigarettes for troops overseas. This $150 was added to a cheque for $50 which the congress received from British Industries Limited, for advertising space in its printed programme, and which was returned to the company. The congress also voted $50 as a direct contribution towards the cigarette fund.

During the day, a handsomely printed programme for the loggers aquacade in the Crystal Garden was distributed by members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, and sales of this programme produced another $150 for the cigarette fund. The programme was conceived by the British Columbia lumber industries as only an interesting souvenir of the thirty-first Pacific Logging Congress but as a means of raising money to provide "smokes" for the troops from Canada, which includes the Forestry Corps, serving overseas.

RUSSO-GERMAN ISSUES

It is not without significance, in estimating possible happenings engineered by the dictators of Europe, that there should be a crescendo of criticism in the Russian press because of what are alleged to be anti-Soviet activities in what remains of Finland. It is the Russian way, in the present time of crisis, to secure bloodless conquests. Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia were coerced into the orbit of Moscow. Enough Finnish soil was seized in the face of an unexpected resistance to give Russia a position of naval dominance in the Eastern Baltic. Bessarabia has been ceded to the Soviet by Rumania. There is now the belief that Russia's next objective will be what of Finland she left free temporarily.

Germany never liked Russia's Finnish adventure. She is distrustful of Soviet policy in the Balkans. To offset the latter, German diplomacy has stationed Hungary and Bulgaria "over Rumania's dead body" in the hope this will put a period to Russia's aims at expansion in the Balkans. However loud may be the expressions of friendship between the Third Reich and the Soviet realm, there is little doubt that there is an issue between those two Powers in Eastern Europe, an issue that, for the time being, is governed by the fact that neither wants war with the other. There are happenings, however, which must strain relations in the long run. A fact but little known is that no Russian supplies are now reaching Germany. Moscow has decreed that she must conserve her entire output, and this is especially the case with petrol and lubricants. One diplomatic correspondent says: "It is well known that Russia is fully prepared to defend both the Ukrainian wheat and the Caucasian oil against the German menace; a menace that both Berlin and Moscow know is bound to come to a head."

Germany effected a temporary settlement of the Balkan difficulties without consulting Russia. In collaboration with Italy, the Third Reich negotiated a mutual assistance pact with Japan, and while it is claimed Russia was advised in advance of the intention, that is not indicated from the repercussions in the Soviet press. There is not a shadow of doubt that the agreement with Japan was devised as a check to Russian ambitions, as well as an attempt to circumscribe aid from the United States to Great Britain. It would seem now that the next move on the chess board of continental Europe may be made by Russia, and many are prophesying that Finland will be the pawn. That might well bring the German-Russian issue to a head, for it would open up a threat to Sweden and its iron mines, upon which Germany relies to such an extent for supplies. Why Russia is suspected of having designs in this direction is that almost immediately following the inclusion of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia in Russia's federated republics, the Russian press and wireless commenced a campaign because of Lapuan and other alleged pro-Nazi activities in Finland.

BRITISH CABINET RECONSTRUCTION

The resignation of Mr. Neville Chamberlain from the British Cabinet, through ill-health, had been expected since his recent operation. He had been under a tremendous strain during the first nine months of the War, when he was Prime Minister. Mr. Churchill has paid him the highest of tributes in praising his indomitable energy and inflexible purpose. There is no doubt whatever that, in the perspective of history, Mr. Chamberlain will have an honored place. He was the target of much unreasoned criticism, and he had to bear the stigma of all the sins of his predecessors in office because of Great Britain's unpreparedness for the present War. He sustained such attacks in full knowledge of the realities of the situation. Mr. Churchill, in the mood of praise he has bestowed on the retiring Minister, has made some amends to him for the storms that blew about the head of one who, in whatever capacity he served, has been loyalty itself in all his public service.

The occasion of Mr. Chamberlain's retirement from office has been chosen for a reorganization of the Churchill Government. The most important part of reconstruction is the inclusion of Sir Kingsley Wood, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Mr. Ernest Bevin, the Minister of Labor, in the War Cabinet. This will increase its number to eight members. Sir John Anderson becomes Lord President of the Council in succession to Mr. Chamberlain, and Mr. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Transport, is appointed Minister of Home Security. There are several other changes, and opinion in Great Britain is that the reconstruction of the Cabinet will lend it strength. In time of war, any Cabinet in a democratic country is undergoing a process of trial and error. When Mr. Churchill became Prime Minister he intimated that there was no finality in the positions of the colleagues he chose for his Government. The changes now effected give promise of strengthening Great Britain's political position in the direction of the War, a position which gathers energy all the time under the dynamic leadership of Mr. Churchill.

MARSHAL PETAIN'S SPITE

Spite, it seems, was one of the elements in the capitulation of France. The story is told in The Daily Sketch, London, of the scene at Bordeaux on that memorable Sunday, June 16. Marshal Petain had received the offer from Mr. Churchill to conclude "a solemn act of union with France," which would give every Frenchman citizenship of Great Britain and make every Briton a citizen of France. Robert Henehy, writing in The Daily Sketch, then says:

"The Marshal, document in hand, paced up and down the room speaking to two or three of his government colleagues. After a moment he turned and said gruffly: 'I will not accept this offer of Churchill's after the way I was treated by Great Britain in March, 1918.' There was a hush. Somebody asked him to explain. Petain cleared his throat and added: 'You will remember that until that date I was commander of the armies of the north and northeast. Then came the critical German offensive on March 21, and the way to Paris lay open. Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau decided to appoint a Generalissimo. My name was passed over in favor of Foch, mostly owing to British exigencies. I have not forgotten that.'

It is recorded that at the gathering which decided on capitulation there were only 60 of 620 deputies present, and of 300 members of the Upper House only 10 took part in the discussion. As Premier, Marshal Petain dominated the discussion. He showed himself rabidly anti-British; an attitude in which he had been confirmed by his wife, who is notably pro-German. These side-lights show the individual who, more than anyone else, broke faith with Great Britain and condemned his country to a state of vassalage. In history the hero of Verdun will be forgotten in his transformation into the man of Vichy.

DUTY FREE CIGARETTES

Writing as the spokesman of some 600 men serving with the Royal Canadian Navy in European waters, a sailor makes the complaint that a certain brand of cigarette, manufactured in Canada, cannot be secured duty free on the destroyers of this country that are overseas. Cigarettes, manufactured by the Imperial Tobacco Company in Canada, are advertised as being sent duty free to the Canadian forces on active service, but in the case of the particular brand about which complaint is made, it is not supplied to the bluejackets. The writer considers that he and other Canadians at sea are on active service, for he says:

"One of our ships is lost in the face of the enemy. Another saved 800 lives from a liner; another 200. In the first of these vessels there was the loss of 48 Canadian lives. The second vessel spent seventeen hours in submarine-infested waters, not to mention mines. Our Navy may be small, but when the time comes its efficiency is not in doubt. We've seen active service from under the sea blown [it] up; from above the sea [shot it] down—and on the land as well as the sea in the two short months we have been over here."

Then the writer complains that his particular brand of cigarette, manufactured in this country, cannot be got by the bluejackets of the R.C.N., although supposed to be obtainable, duty free, for those on active service overseas." This is written to bring the matter to the attention of the Imperial Tobacco Company.

The Daily Herald, London, known as the organ of British Labor, says: "Hitler has not achieved one atom of military gain by killing 1,075 civilians, including 113 children. He has merely rendered deeper and blacker the curse of all humanity which lies upon his head. Britain must not compete with him in infamy. What possible strategic gain could we secure, in any case, by such barbarous competition? We are going to press military attacks for military advantage, ruthlessly and without cessation, for the sake of victory, and victory alone."

What has happened Irish manhood under Mr. de Valera? Bombs have been dropped by a Nazi airplane in broad daylight in County Wexford; a German raider has machine-gunned and killed Irish seamen in the Irish Sea; three Irish women have been killed by a German bombing attack. A protest was made to Berlin, but no attention was paid to it. Irishmen are doing what they have rarely done in all their history. They are taking punishment lying down.

The staffing of 2,000 offices across the Dominion will be the initial task of the Unemployment Insurance Commission provided for in the last session of Parliament. That gives an indication of the cost that will be involved in the administration of the new legislation and the field that is so abundantly widened for the distribution of party patronage.

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

"Good Luck!" The words are addressed to the officers and men of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, who, whenever they leave, will carry with them the admiration and the best wishes of Victoria. On their shoulders are The Oaks—an acorn on a broad oak leaf, surmounting the red patch of the original First Canadian Division—which were won by the Sixteenth Battalion, C.E.F., at Kitchener's Wood twenty-five years ago. On their battle colors, deposited in Christ Church Cathedral, are the names of every major engagement in the last war; which curiously merged with this war and is the same conflict more bitterly renewed

TRAINING AT NAVAL DEPOT

Young Flying Officer
Reported Missing

Western Yachtsmen Win Compliments From High Commissioner

SOMEWHERE ON THE SOUTH COAST OF ENGLAND Oct. 3 (CP)—Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, watched Canadian naval officers today studying everything, from how to counter enemy action to steering their way through stormy seas, at a famous naval training establishment and told them he was proud Canada was contributing to the school.

After lunch, Mr. Massey chatted with former yachtsmen from Victoria, Vancouver and Toronto and some from other Canadian cities.

The party included the stepfather to Canadian seamen, Comdr. Eustace Brock, the Canadian liaison officer, who meets the various drafts when they arrive. Comdr. Brock was particularly proud because his son, Jeffrey, former Vancouver advertising man, has just been appointed commander of a warship following recent completion of a course here.

Officers taking the lectures include Tom Ladner, Vancouver, who quit his father's law firm in August to join the navy, and Frank Stuart, Vancouver, who served in the artillery and the air force in the last war, and said he joined the navy this time because he is a yachtsman.

FROM VICTORIA

Ned Ashe, commodore of the Victoria Yacht Club, and G. L. Campbell, a fellow club member, also are training. Winnipeg is represented by Tom McLaughlin and Gus Lemon.

All said they are most enthusiastic about the school and are enjoying the life.

The establishment's total strength is nearly 500 officers and cadet ratings, including about forty Canadian officers. Starting last April, about 125 young officers from the Dominion arrived and passed through here. A further group of twenty-six is expected shortly.

In addition, 150 Canadian ratings have arrived or will arrive going direct to shore establishments elsewhere in England.

Canned Salmon Pack Is 200,000 Cases Under Total Sept. 28, 1939

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP)—British Columbia's canned salmon pack continues to run under the figures for a year ago, according to the weekly bulletin issued here by the Department of Fisheries. According to the bulletin, 1,067,361 cases of salmon were packed up to September 28, almost 200,000 cases less than at a similar date in 1939.

The sockeye pack totaled 356,209 cases, almost 400,000 more than a year ago but the pack of pink salmon amounted to only 231,151 cases as compared with 602,424 in 1939.

Coho packed came to 165,806 cases, only slightly less than last year, and chum rose from 158,419 in 1939 to 291,781 this year. The blueback pack of 23,073 was less than half last year's. Steelhead with 949 and springs with 16,392 cases packed were in excess of last year's figures at this date.

Becomes President of Film Concern

ONE of Canada's outstanding independent film leaders, now president and general manager of the Associated Screen News of Montreal, the chairman of which is Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Mr. Norrish took over the management of the A.S.N. in 1930, and has built it to a pre-eminent position in the manufacture and distribution of films of all kinds in the Dominion. Since the outbreak of the war, the A.S.N., with the National Film Board, has been busy producing film stories illustrating phases of Canada's war effort.

APPOINTED TO ISLAND POST

R. A. Bell, of Winnipeg, succeeds Edward Lait in Point Ellice Position

dian National Steamships, toasted the vessel and the sponsor, Mrs. Hanson.

Mr. Hanson, called upon for a brief speech, said the yard where the new vessel was built was a credit to the community in time of crisis. He added that the port and its facilities stand ready to carry on further wartime work.

Arriving here from Winnipeg during the week, R. A. Bell succeeds Edward Lait as transportation assistant, C.N.R., for Vancouver Island.

Mr. Bell, who was secretary to the general manager, Western Lines, Winnipeg, will be in charge of barge and rail operations on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Bell has been associated with the Canadian National Railways for thirty years and in that time has seen service in a number of branches. He is an ardent sportsman and was one of the main supporters of the famous Winnipeg Canadian football team.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell and their two young daughters expect to remain here for some time and although hardly a week in Victoria Mr. Bell much impressed with its residential advantages and surroundings.

Mr. Lait, who left here for Edson early in the week, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Alberta division, Canadian National Railways.

The boys and girls said the voyage was uneventful except for sea-sickness. They stopped at St. John's Nfld. for two days and were driven about on sightseeing tours in automobiles provided by residents of the capital there.

The children told how the German bombers came over Britain in groups and separately. Flying in at high altitudes, they dive down to release their bombs, but are not a match for the British Spitfires.

The youngsters said they had often watched dogfights high in the skies over their homes and shells from the Messerschmitt cannon had fallen near them. So fast and daring were the Royal Air Force pilots that a single Spitfire or Hurricane often flashed down out of the clouds and sent a large formation of German bombers scattering in disorder.

NIGHT SCHOOL STARTS HERE

Large Registration at High School When Evening Classes Open

taking one subject twice a week, or two subjects once per week. While fees remain constant, it was found advisable to increase the time allowed on the agenda, as it was learned that the majority of the students last year were taking the extra classes anyway.

George Anstey, new director of the night school for the school, stated last night that a junior matriculation class is in the process of formation, providing a sufficient number of students may be found to make the classes possible. He requested that all interested leave their names at the school board office or the high school office at any time.

CLASSES POPULAR

The response to the night school registration has given ample evidence of the interest in further learning, to such an extent that the board has found it necessary to provide for a teacher and equipment for a welding class. While the class has not been indicated as being open for registration this year, so many asked about the course that it was found necessary to make provision for one in the near future.

While the majority of the lectures are given in the Victoria High School art metal classes, woodworking classes, mechanical drafting classes, carpentry and joinery classes and electrical classes are being conducted in the Central Junior High School.

At the Kingston Street School, pottery is being taught, while armature winding is being taught at the residence of E. J. Cox, instructor, on Langley Street. One afternoon class of that dressmaking, is being given by Mrs. L. Gibson, at the high school.

Think Time Ripe to Form All-Canadian Women's Auxiliary

Three Vancouver Island Women Driving Transports in England Would Like to See Formation of Corps in Canada

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 3 (P)—Three young women from Vancouver Island now driving transports in England are convinced the time has arrived for organization of an all-Canadian women's auxiliary corps. The girls came overseas last February. They are Gladys Hindmarch, former newspaper woman from Nanaimo; Peggy Moore, of Duncan, and Kay Yeo, of Parksville, B.C.

When they left their Canadian homes they had planned to link up with the First Canadian Division, but to their dismay discovered that war establishment made no provisions for enlistment of women.

"That news came as a shock to us," Miss Moore declared. "After paying our passage across, we only had enough money to see us through for a couple of weeks. But we had no intention of quitting because we guessed wrong, so we joined up with the A.T.S. (Auxiliary Territorial Service.)"

CORPS IN CANADA

It was Miss Hindmarch who suggested formation of a Women's Auxiliary Corps in Canada.

"Whenever I meet Canadian administrative officers I hear the same story," she said. "They can't find enough experienced clerks, stenographers or general office workers among the men."

All three girls agreed their experiences with the British service had been "most interesting," and that they had been treated with every kindness and generosity. They spent seven weeks at a training depot where discipline was just as rigid as it is in the average soldiers' camp.

"And I'll tell you it was training," Miss Yeo remarked. "But it taught us lot we didn't know before."

DAY IN TRAINING

Here is how they described a typical day at the training depot: Reveille at 6 a.m.; make beds, clean rooms and polish buttons; breakfast at 7; room inspection and prayers at 8; drill from 9 to 10; lectures until 11, when cocoa was

WHO lives with her daughter, able to milk cows and do all the other useful tasks that farm life demands. Mrs. Duke as a girl learned about reading, writing and arithmetic as well, and served for some time as teacher in the little village school before she married. Her husband was a farmer, and eventually moved out West, fifty-six years ago, taking a farm at Albert Head, where the family continued to live for more than forty years. Although she is frail, Mrs. Duke's health is good, and her mind is extraordinarily clear and active.

convened by Mrs. A. Sullivan and Mrs. H. English, who acted as hostess. The assistants were Mrs. H. Campbell, Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. Stewart Smith, Mrs. Wharton, Mrs. O. Murphy, Mrs. W. J. Gilliland and Mrs. T. Dowell.

REPRESENTS ARMY

Mrs. J. T. Williams convened the W.A. table, which represented the army. In the centre of the table was a complete military unit in miniature. There were the tents, the cavalry, the artillery, tanks and armoured cars, and even soldiers on camels gazing at the sands. The president, Mrs. Butler, and vice-president, Mrs. Benson, of the W.A. of Beacon United Church, were the pourers. Mrs. F. H. Parsons was the hostess, and had as her assistants Mrs. L. J. Adams, Mrs. Sweetland, Mrs. H. Knott, Mrs. C. Walker, Mrs. T. Hammond and Mrs. Pettigrew.

The air force was depicted by the table convened by Mrs. R. Harris and Mrs. W. D. Murgatroyd for the Sunday school and choir. This had airplanes over the table and an airfield with hangars, planes, armament, guns and searchlights as a centrepiece. Mrs. S. J. Willis and Mrs. A. J. Daniels were at the tea urns and Mrs. R. Harris was the hostess. The assistants were Misses T. Murgatroyd, Jean Adams, E. Gilliland, F. Bailey, Jean Tinker, and Mrs. R. Bewell and Mrs. G. Robison.

FLOWER GUILD TABLE

The Flower Guild table was convened by Mrs. H. Pendray. In the centre of this table, on a sea of blue, were the battleships and convoys of the navy. Officers and ratings were all represented. Mrs. W. J. Cullum was the hostess. Mrs. E. W. Whitington and Mrs. A. Parfitt poured Arrangements are progressing for the barn dance to be held in the Oak Bay Theatre Hall on October 11. It was announced by Mrs. George Fatt, the convenor. Mrs. Fatt, as Red Cross convenor, reported that the first knitting meetings for the Autumn will commence at her home, Trutch Street, next Monday evening.

New members were welcomed by the president, Miss B. Colbert. A letter from Sister Mary Alfreda, on behalf of the sisters of St. Joseph, expressed the appreciation of the work done by the auxiliary and the gifts of the Venetian blinds in the new villa.

Sister Mary Beatrice showed the members through the new villa and the plaque placed in the reception hall. The plaque was suitably inscribed to show that the Venetian blinds had been donated by the auxiliary. Games were played later, under the direction of Miss Rhoda Goward, and refreshments were served by Sister Mary Beatrice.

Sum of $61 Received at Pound Party

The annual pound party at the British Columbia Protestant Orphan's Home yesterday afternoon resulted in a large quantity of donations in addition to $61 in cash. The visitors were welcomed by the president, Mrs. D. C. Hughes, assisted by Mrs. F. V. Longstaff and the matron, Mrs. Barmer.

Mr. P. C. Dillabough received the cash donations and Mrs. W. H. Dunsmore, Mrs. E. M. Brown and Mrs. J. G. Simpson were in charge of the supplies brought by generous donors.

Tea was served in the dining-room, where, at a table arranged with Michaelmas daisies and pink chrysanthemums and lighted by pink tapers in silver holders, Mrs. R. T. Elliott and Mrs. W. A. Luney poured tea. Assisting in serving were members of the committee and a number of the Junior Women's Auxiliary members.

The visitors were interested in seeing the improvements made recently in the decorations and lighting equipment of the home and the extensive work done in the garden.

A short musical programme, including songs, recitations and harmonica selections, was given by some of the children, this feature of the afternoon being enthusiastically applauded by the guests.

Mrs. W. L. Smith moved a vote of thanks to the artists and all who had helped to make this an outstanding event in the activities of the W.M.S., and said it had been a financial as well as a social success.

WALTERS PITCHES GREAT BALL TO WIN FOR REDS

DEADLOCKS SERIES BY TWIRLING CINCY SQUAD TO TRIUMPH

Former Infelder Allows Detroit Three Hits as Mates Pound Out 5-3 Decision at Crosley Field

—Rowe Driven to Showers—Ripple Hits Homer—Bridges Will Pitch Today

By JUDSON BARTELL
Associated Press Writer

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Cincinnati's rebellious Reds, counted out yesterday, were counted back into the 1940 World Series today with a 5-3 triumph over Detroit Tigers on the superb three-hit hurling of "Lucky" Bucky" Walters.

Cincinnati—fans 30,440—of them, cheered their heroes' every move as the willowy right-hander redeemed a wild start and his supposedly weak-hitting teammates rallied Schoolboy Rowe for all their runs in the first four innings.

The tide of battle turned a complete somersault as Walters, after walking the first two men he faced and giving up two runs in the first inning, settled down to retire the Tigers in order in five of the remaining eight frames.

The only hits he gave up were a single to Charley Gehringen in the first, a double to Pinky Higgins in the fifth, and another two-bagger to Hank Greenberg in the sixth.

In contrast, the Reds pelted Rowe, who lost three games and won sixteen during the regular campaign, for all their runs and eight of their nine hits before he was relieved by Rookie John Gorsica with one out in the fourth.

The Reds were set down in succession in the first, but bunched four singles in the second, a single and a home run by Jim Ripple in the third and successive doubles in the fourth.

FINE RELIEF WORK

Gorsica, a right-hander who had been expected to be held in reserve as a starter for the fourth game, allowed only one single, the eighth inning and let no other runners reach first base in the four and two-thirds innings he worked.

The National League champions, who pulled Walters aside of his opening jam, with a minimum of damage by means of a fast double play, put up a tight defence thereafter and never were in danger of being overtaken.

It was the first time that a club representing the senior circuit in baseball's big Autumn classic won a game from the American League since the New York Giants took the fourth game of the 1937 series from the Yankees.

Walters' only fault was that first unforthcoming wildness. His very first pitch sailed past Catcher Jimmy Wilson like a shot and he passed the first two batters, Dick Bartell and Barney McClosky, in ten pitches.

Then Gehringen smacked a single to score Bartell and young Gene Thompson went into action in the Reds' bullpen. But before he could get ready, Bill Werber grabbed Greenberg's grounder for a double play, on which McClosky scored, and Walters found himself to strike out Rudy York on four pitches.

From that point on Walters never gave the fans or his teammates a chance.

CHAPTER XXXIX

She looked down at her hands and continued to stare at the chipped nail polish on her left thumb while she spoke.

"It appears to be very prosperous, is that's what you mean. I've seen him only once or twice. He's a member of the country club, and you always hear his name mentioned when Newton people speak of up and coming young men. And he's going to be married soon. Dick, this will kill that girl!"

Still looking at the chipped nail polish, Edwina said: "The night I saw him at the club I noticed that he had changed. There was something about his eyes. . . . I suppose it's a look you get when you're afraid of being found out. I imagine I've looked like that a good many times recently and didn't know it."

Her eyes came up. "I'm glad I'm going away. I don't want to be here when it breaks. But why did he do it? Why? He didn't have to. He didn't have to steal! He's made a name for himself. I don't understand why he did it, Dick. . . ."

He smiled. "Why does anybody steal—those who have and those who haven't? To get more if you have, and to get what you can if you haven't. Some people can't get rich fast enough. In Alan's case it was probably that. Simple, wasn't it, robbing a man who couldn't see a man who had implicit faith in you—an almost childlike faith?"

"I haven't helped you very much."

"It was just a chance you could

I didn't know how frequently you'd seen him or talked with him. I knew you'd help me if you could, because I knew you didn't have any great affection for him. It was obvious when you mentioned him that night in New York. I've never quite understood that situation with you and Alan. But no matter."

Last night I dug out facts, and this afternoon I hope to die out more. Two of Mr. Hartley's old tenants are co-operating. They're hopping mad. You know, public sentiment is going to be very strong in this case. In spite of Alan's popularity, nothing is more appealing to a jury than a blind old man who has been robbed."

Her eyes burning, she came under the umbrella again. "How do you feel about it, Dick?"

Last night I was hopping mad, too. I've cooled off a bit. I'd like to be out of it and on my way back to New York, but my sympathy for Mr. Hartley will make me stay and sit through."

He sat back in his chair. "I've saved a surprise. After I left Newton and Alan took over Mr. Hartley's affairs and the old man became attached to him, Mr. Hartley called in still another attorney and made a new will, voiding the one I had drawn up for him leaving his estate to old friends and charities. The new will, which Alan doesn't know about, is in a box at the Equitable Trust Company. In it Mr. Hartley leaves everything to Alan."

She winced. And because she could no longer be still, she arose and walked about the terrace adjusting the belt of her dress and touching her hair nervously. It was

The child born on October 4, during its formative years may develop some rather puzzling characteristics which, in time, are likely to develop into very admirable ones. This youngster's youthful experience may be preparatory for an unusually sympathetic and clearer understanding of human nature.

If a man and October 4 is your natal day, if you are misunderstood and not fully appreciated now, do not be discouraged; for Time generally sweeps aside misconceptions and reveals the sterling worth of Libra's men and women. You might be exceptionally well qualified to engage in newspaper work, medicine, law, inventing, some scientific researches of activity, as well as writing, teaching, selling, promoting, financing, farming, mining, engineering, politics, or in some patriotic form of activity.

What Today Means*"LIBRA"

If October 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon; from 2 to 4 p.m., and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 6 to 8 p.m., and from 10 p.m. until midnight.

You may have only yourself to blame for any physical discomfiture you may experience if you disregard the rules prescribed by common sense for the proper regulation of your habits. Mother Nature is a stern disciplinarian, and will hold you strictly accountable if you deliberately violate any of her laws today. Finding a needle in a haystack is likely to be an easier job than finding a person who will appreciate the plain, unvarnished truth, even if it comes in the way of constructive criticism, so think twice before offering any.

A superabundance of pride will make the average person extremely sensitive today, so be prepared to handle the members of your family and your friends with kid gloves, if you wish to remain on friendly terms with them. Married and engaged couples, and those whose hearts have become united by a common bond of love, may find today that "When Silence Speaks, for Love She has much to say."

If a woman, and October 4 is your birthday, you may have too much confidence in the average person's discretion when it comes to discussing your personal affairs. People cannot interfere with your plans—if they do not know them. Flowers, trees and shrubs can have a remarkably soothing effect on you when mentally perturbed, so try communing with God's outdoor creations whenever you feel unduly agitated. APPEALS REFUSED BY ZONING BOARD*"LIBRA"

Two applications to the Saanich zoning board of appeal were turned down at a meeting of zoning officials in the Municipal Hall yesterday afternoon.

The board, under the chairmanship of H. C. Oldfield, refused the appeal of Victor H. Raasen to erect a shoe repair shop at the corner of Carey and University Roads, just opposite Mount View High School. The zoning board was in receipt of a petition bearing twenty-five names, representing seventeen families in the vicinity which opposed granting the application.

Similar action was taken with the request of Lou Orrico to erect a greenhouse, twenty-five feet by 100 feet, at a distance less than fifty feet from the Victoria Standard, on the corner of Grant Street. Zoning regulations require that greenhouses be at least fifty feet distant from the boundary of property.

Sponsored by the student council and for the purpose of advertising and stimulating the sale of admission tickets, almost one thousand students crowded the auditorium of the Victoria High School Wednesday noon to participate in the first pep meeting of the year.

Under the genial supervision of Jim McKeachie, master of ceremonies, members of the student council participated in various skits, plays, songs and other forms of entertainment.
